The card in it's whole is a component = Block.

Everything which goes inside of a Block is an Element (for the most part)

A circular portrait of a man with a shaved head, wearing black-rimmed glasses and a black V-neck t-shirt. He is looking slightly to his left with a neutral expression. The background is dark and out of focus, with a warm light source visible behind him. The portrait is set against a dark blue-grey background.

The image shows a web application interface for managing a styleguide. At the top, there's a dark blue header with the word 'Styleguide' in white. Below the header, there's a 'Stylesheets' section with two buttons: 'Add Stylesheet' and 'Add Folder'. Underneath, there's a 'Enabled' section, which is currently expanded to show a list of categories: 'Uncategorized', 'Reviews', 'Buttons', 'Animation', 'Strokes', 'Utility', 'cards', and 'BEM'. Each category is represented by a dark blue button with white text. A minus icon is visible to the left of the 'Uncategorized' button, indicating it's the selected or active category. At the bottom, there's a 'Disabled' section, which is currently collapsed, showing only the 'Uncategorized' category.

Putting an image in a div gives more flexibility with regards to spacing and other settings.

One of the big ones: Pseudo Elements. You can't have them on images alone.
